Omar Daniel obtained both his Bachelor of Music and Master of Music degrees from the University of Toronto, studying with John Beckwith, Walter Buczynski, Ka Nin Chan and Lothar Klein. In 1987 Mr. Daniel spent a number of months in Cambridge England under the guidance of Alexander Goehr. In 1987 his vocal work The Stars Would Have Me Weep was a prize recipient in the PRO National Competition for Young Composers, and Momentum for solo guitar was chosen as the required work for the semi-finalists during the Guitar '87 Festival in Toronto. Mr. Daniel has recently completed two works on commission for the University of Toronto Guitar Ensemble, and the Ardeleana Trio.

Jeannette Hirasawa received her Bachelor of Music degree in performance from the University of Toronto in 1984. Her major teachers were Douglas Stewart and Robert Aitken. She has appeared as soloist with the Toronto Symphony, the Calgary Philharmonic, Ensemble Sir Ernest MacMillan and the Hart House Orchestra. In 1989 she was a quarter-finalist in the CBC Competition for Young Performers. She performs with the Toronto Pops Orchestra, the Niagara Symphony, the Hamilton Philharmonic and the Kitchener-Waterloo Symphony and is a founding member of the Zephyr Wind Quintet. She is currently studying with Douglas Stewart.

"THE FLUTE IN THE NINETEENTH CENTURY"

A LECTURE/DEMONSTRATION

presented by

AMY HAMILTON,
Wilfrid Laurier University

The recent activity in Baroque music performance and scholarship has provided musicians with an increased awareness of the stylistic aspects of the Baroque period. A similar enthusiasm is emerging to explore the principles of authentic performance practice in music of the late eighteenth and nineteenth centuries.

The nineteenth century was a time of tremendous experimentation in instrument construction, paralleled by an unprecedented level of activity in orchestral composition. In the early 1800's, flutists played keyed, wooden instruments which were the direct descendents of the Baroque flute. Our modern flute was developed by Theobald Boehm in 1847, but it was by no means accepted as the standard orchestral instrument in Europe until well into the twentieth century. Not only were symphonists such as Beethoven, Schubert, Schumann and Mendelssohn composing for the old system flute, but many later nineteenth century composers (Wagner, Brahms) actually preferred the old flute to our modern one, and wrote with the older instrument in mind.

Amy Hamilton has completed extensive research in this field, and has developed a presentation which includes commentary interspersed with orchestral excerpts and solo works performed on period instruments. The evolution of flute construction is discussed from the perspective of famous nineteenth century flutists. In addition, the interaction between these flutists and prominent composers and conductors is explored in detail.

To understand the effect that instrument construction and performance practice had upon the composers who produced so much of our standard symphonic repertoire is not only interesting, but essential in gaining a complete realization of the composer's intent. This information is valuable not only to flutists, but to all musicians who are involved in the interpretation of nineteenth century music.

Amy Hamilton received a Bachelor of Music Degree and Performer's Certificate in Flute from the Eastman School of Music, a Master of Music degree from Indiana University, and a Doctorate in Flute Performance from Northwestern University. She has performed extensively in orchestras throughout North America, and is currently a member of the Music Faculty of Wilfrid Laurier University in Waterloo.

NINETEENTH CENTURY FLUTES AND FLUTISTS

by
Dr. Amy Hamilton

GERMANY AND AUSTRIA

Johann Georg Tromlitz--Leipzig flutist in late 1700's. Added C and long F keys to the flute. He wrote Unterricht der Flöte zu Spielen in 1791.

Georg Bayr--Prominent Viennese flutist during the early 1800's. Played many Beethoven premiers. Preferred a multi-keyed flute with extended foot joint.

Karl Grenser--Was 1st flute in the Gewandhaus Orchestra 1827-1855. Played many Mendelssohn and Schumann premieres under the direction of Mendelssohn. Played an 8-keyed wooden flute.

A.B. Fürstenau--1st flute in Dresden 1820-1852 under Carl Maria von Weber and Richard Wagner. Played an 8-keyed wooden flute.

THEOBALD BOEHM--Munich flutist and instrument maker 1812-1881. Developed the modern flute 1832-1847.

Wilhelm Barge--He became 1st flute in the Gewandhaus Orchestra in 1867. Played only the 8-keyed, conical wooden flute.

Maximilian Schwedler--Followed Barge as 1st flute in the Gewandhaus Orchestra, and developed the "German Reform Flute" based on the old system conical wooden flute.

Moritz Fürstenau--Son of A.B. Fürstenau, and switched to the Boehm 1832 flute. He was required to change back to the old system flute in order to succeed his father as 1st flute in Dresden.

Franz Doppler--1st flute in the Vienna Philharmonic, 1858-1879. Teacher -the Vienna Conservatory, and played old system conical wooden flutes. Premiered many works of Brahms.

Rudolf Tillmetz--1st flute in Munich 1864-1897. Played the Boehm 1832 flute until 1884, then switched to a wooden Boehm 1847 flute.

ENGLAND

Charles Nicholson--Popular flutist in London in the 1820's. Enlarged tone holes to produce a fuller sound. Technically flamboyant performer. 1st flute in Kings Theater Orchestra 1823-1837.

Jose Ribas--Followed Nicholson as 1st flute in the Kings Theater Orchestra in 1837. Mendelssohn was influenced by his double-tonguing skills. He participated in the British premieres of many Mendelssohn works.

R. Carte, J. Clinton, S. Pratten, R. Rockstro--Late 19th century flutists who modified Boehm's 1847 flute to accommodate old fingering system.

FRANCE

Louis Drouet--Popular French flutist in the 1820's-1830's with an international solo career. Advocated modern double-tonging, and worked with Mendelssohn.

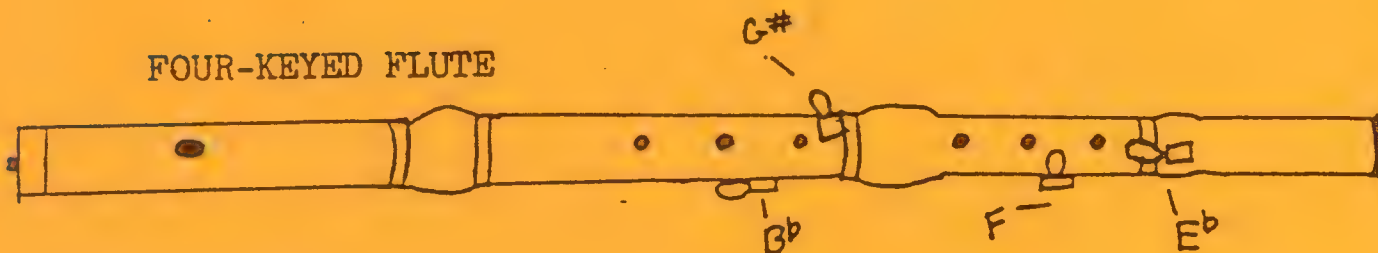

Camus, L. Dorus--Two prominent French flutists who were among the first to switch to the Boehm flute in the 1830's.

Jean-Louis Tulou--1st flute in the Paris Opera Orchestra in the 1820's and 1830's. He would not switch to the Boehm 1832 flute, and wrote a method book for the old flute in 1835.

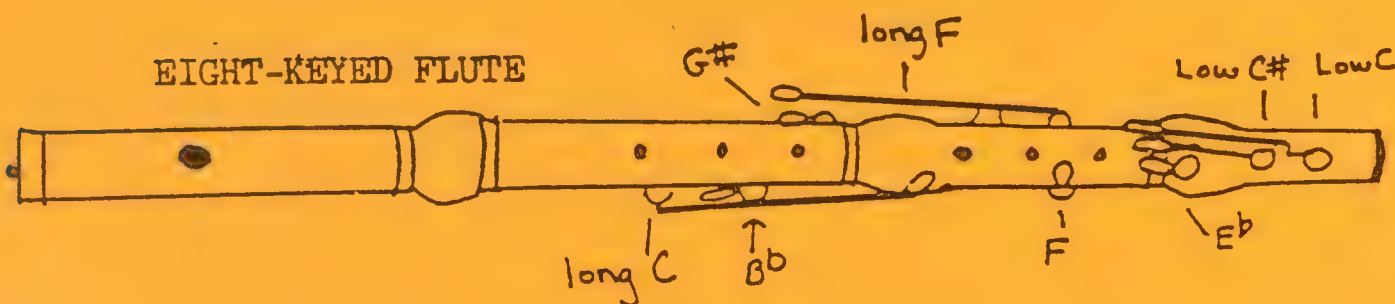

Vincent Dorus--Leading French flutist in the 1850's. Appointed instructor at the Paris Conservatory in the 1860's. Played a silver 1847 Boehm flute.

Paul Taffanel--Appointed 1st flute in the Paris Opera Orchestra in 1867. Became a leading virtuoso on the Boehm silver 1847 flute.

"THE ARTS AND GENERIC SKILLS"

A SPECIAL LECTURE

presented by

ELIZABETH STRAUS

Elizabeth Straus' varied interests in education, the arts, and business have led her to explore a current issue of major concern: job placement for arts graduates. Her concerns for arts graduates, for performing artists seeking career changes, and for those artists who need to supplement their incomes to survive, were responsible for her decision to pursue doctoral studies at OISE. During the course of this lecture, she will share her research on how those skills acquired through the performing arts may be transferred to the marketplace, the workplace, and institutes of higher learning.

Ms. Straus is the president of a successful manufacturing company in Waterloo, and an active member of the advisory council of Oktoberfest Inc., promoters of Canada's largest ethnic festival. She also holds positions on several arts councils and with various boards of directors associated with the arts and with business. Despite her many activities, soprano Elizabeth Strauss maintains her performing career through appearances as guest soloist with orchestras in Canada and Europe.

SPECIAL NOTICE TO TEACHERS AND PARENTS

UNIVERSITY OF TORONTO YOUTH CONCERT BRITTEN'S ST. NICOLAS

The Faculty of Music is pleased to announce a special youth concert performance of Benjamin Britten's St. Nicolas to be performed by Canadian tenor, Glyn Evans, the University Symphony Orchestra and Chorus and the Claude Watson School for the Arts elementary choir. The concert will be conducted by Doreen Rao, Professor of Music Education and Director of Choral Programs. This University of Toronto Youth Concert is scheduled for Thursday, November 30 at 12:00 Noon. Admission is free, but reservations are required. Please call Joanne Harada at 978-5772.

The format of this Youth Concert will include an introduction to the story of St. Nicolas, friend of children and sailors. Students in the audience will have the opportunity to sing along and they will be encouraged to do so by our undergraduate music education students eagerly awaiting to meet "real kids." The presentation will be geared to elementary and high school age students.

My students and I look forward to the opportunity of meeting you, and we hope your students will enjoy this special event we have planned for them.

Recitative

Drum sucht auch Amor sein Vergnügen, wenn Purpur in den Wiesen lacht, wenn Florens Pracht sich herrlich macht, und wenn in seinem Reich, den schönen Blumen gleich, auch Herzen feurig siegen.

Cupid too seeks his pleasure when the purple-clad meadows laugh and when Flora's mighty splendour is revealed: and when, in his domain, beautiful flowers and ardent hearts jointly triumph.

Aria

Wenn die Frühlingslüfte streichen und durch bunte Felder
wehn, pflegt auch Amor auszuschleichen, um nach seinem Schmuck zu sehn, welcher, glaubt man, dieser ist, dass ein Herz das andre küsst.

When spring zephyrs caress and wander through the multicoloured meadows, Cupid too goes out to see his jewels, which are when one heart kisses another.

Recitative

Und dieses ist das Glücke, dass durch ein hohes Gunstgeschicke zwei Seelen einen Schmuck erlanget, an dem viel Heil und Segen pranget.

And this is good fortune: when high destiny unites two souls to create a single jewel of prosperity and blessing.

Aria

Sich üben im Lieben, im Scherzen sich Herzen ist besser als Florens vergängliche Lust. Hier quellen die Wellen, hier lachen und wachen die siegenden Palmen auf Lippen und Brust.

To be loving to one another with cheerful heart is better than Flora's fleeting delights. Here the waves well up and victorious palms laugh and watch over lips and heart.

Recitative

So sei das Band der keuschen Liebe, verlobte Zwei, vom
Unbestand des Wechsels frei! Kein jäher Fall, noch Donnerknall erschrecke die verliebten Triebe!

So may the bond of pure love, betrothed pair, be free from inconstancy and change! May no sudden blow or thunderclap disturb your amorous desires!

Gavotte

Sehet in Zufriedenheit tausend helle Wohlfahrtstage, dass bald bei der Folgezeit eure Liebe Blumen trage!

May you pass in contentment a thousand days of prosperity so that, in the fullness of time, your love may abundantly blossom!

The Historical Performance Ensembles consist of a number of chamber groups involved in the interpretation of music according to the style of its time. The ensembles include graduate and undergraduate students at the University of Toronto, under the direction of Timothy McGee and Stephanie Martin.

Many of the instruments played by members of the Historical Performance ensembles are recent gifts and loans to the Faculty of Music. We acknowledge with gratitude the generosity of the following:

Eugene Rousseau is one of the few classical saxophonists enjoying an international performing career. Since his Carnegie Hall debut in 1965, he has performed across North America and on five continents. The Chicago-born Rousseau's discography displays his unique versatility not only as a rare classical artist, but also as a featured jazz soloist. As Yamaha's chief consultant for saxophone research since 1972, Rousseau has contributed to the development of artistic and acoustical improvements in saxophones and mouthpieces. Eugene Rousseau has been a professor at the Indiana University School of Music since 1964 and has, in addition, served as guest professor at the Prague Conservatory, Arizona State University, and the Hochschule für Musik in Vienna.

THE ART OF GESTURE

a Lecture by

Professor Dene Barnett

The Flinders University, Australia

assisted by

Marshall Pynkoski

Opera Atelier, Toronto

Dene Barnett combines a musical background with an interest in theatrical performance practice through his research into the technique of gesture as it was used in the theatre and opera of the Baroque and Classic periods and in rhetoric. He is the outstanding authority on the subject and is the author of The Art of Gesture; The Practices and Principles of 18th Century Acting. The lecture will be demonstrated by the participation of Marshall Pynkoski, whose Opera Atelier productions exemplify much of the results of Professor Barnett's research and teaching.

The Music of Magical Realism (Tradition and social implications of new music)

Denys Bouliane

Denys Bouliane was born in Quebec in 1955. While maintaining his classical studies at the Petit Séminaire de Québec, he played rock guitar in an amateur band during his adolescence. He studied piano and violin at the School of Music of Laval University, and graduated in 1979 with a Masters degree in composition. Between 1980 and 1985, he continued his studies with György Ligeti at the Hamburg Conservatory.

His compositions have been awarded prizes both in Canada and abroad; A propos...et le Baron perché? was awarded the Jules Leger Prize in 1987. He was named composer of the year by the Canadian Music Council in 1983, and he received the "Förderpreis" from the city of Cologne in 1985. Charles Amirkhanian has described Denys Bouliane as "one of the most promising young composers living in West Germany today."

Parody and Panache in Early "English" Piano Music

Dorothy de Val

Pianist Dorothy de Val, a former student of Pierre Souvairan, graduated from the University of Toronto with her Bachelor of Music and Master of Music degrees. She studied with Nadia Boulanger in France and, in 1978, she went to London to pursue her studies as a postgraduate at the Royal College of Music; she subsequently obtained the performer's Associateship diploma with distinction. Miss de Val was later appointed assistant curator of the RCM's distinguished collection of instruments, where she was responsible for giving lecture-recitals and demonstrations on a wide range of keyboard instruments. Dorothy de Val is highly qualified as a music historian, and has now delved into the little-known music of the "London Pianoforte School" --- represented for the most part by the repertoire of the years 1770 to 1860. In addition to maintaining her performing career, Dorothy de Val is a doctoral candidate at King's College, Cambridge.

A Renaissance Debate on the Art of Composition

by

Professor Bonnie Blackburn

Visiting Professor, State University of New York at Buffalo

Professor Blackburn has taught at the University of Chicago and Northwestern University and last year held a Guggenheim Fellowship which allowed her to continue work on fifteenth-century music theory. Her lecture will be based on a discussion of compositional practice carried on between two major Renaissance figures, Giovanni Spataro and Pietro Aaron. Although primarily known as theorists, the two were also composers, and the letters contain highly interesting critiques of compositions, some of which survive in the archive of Spataro's church in Bologna.

Music and Perestroika in the USSR

A lecture presented by
Rodion Shchedrin

* * * * *

Born in Moscow in 1932, Rodion Shchedrin is considered by many to be the most outstanding composer in the USSR today. He studied piano and composition at the Moscow Conservatoire, graduating with honours.

Although a household name in the USSR, Shchedrin's music has not been widely performed in the West because of the isolation of his country. This is a situation which is now, however, changing very quickly. In 1988, there was a major music festival in Boston devoted to Soviet and American music at which his most major opera to date, Dead Souls, and his last three major ballets were presented. Rodion Shchedrin was invited to compose a work for the centenary of the Chicago Symphony, and was recently commissioned to write a full-length opera for the new Opera House in Paris.

In 1976, Shchedrin was elected to succeed Dmitri Shostakovich as Chairman of the Union of Composers of the RSFSR. He has campaigned extensively on behalf of Russian composers for greater freedom in creative matters and for international musical exchanges.

This is Rodion Shchedrin's third trip to Canada. On January 27, the Calgary Philharmonic Orchestra programmed an all-Shchedrin concert, at which the composer performed his Piano Concerto No. 1. His trip also includes lectures at six Canadian universities, masterclasses at the Banff Centre, and a recital of his piano music performed by Charles Foreman and recorded by the CBC. Rodion Shchedrin has been brought to Canada by The Glenn Gould Foundation to be a member of the international jury for The Glenn Gould Prize.

Rodion Shchedrin's lecture at the University of Toronto is presented with the Canadian Music Centre in association with the Glenn Gould Foundation. His lecture will be delivered in Russian, and interpreted into English.

SPECIAL PROGRAM IN CONDUCTING

1990-91

An intensive and full-time advanced course in conducting from September 1990 to April 1991. Limited Enrolment. Students will work with a variety of ensembles in the Faculty of Music under the supervision of staff members and under the general direction of Maestro Michel Tabachnik.

The Faculty of Music offers possibilities for working with the University of Toronto Symphony Orchestra, Wind Symphony, Concert Band, Opera, Choirs and Chamber Ensembles. Arrangements will be made for observation of other musical organizations in Toronto.

Candidates should forward a complete résumé of their musical training and experience, along with a cassette tape of approximately fifteen minutes duration of performance on their major instrument, by March 6, 1990, to:

Professor S. Chenette, Acting Associate Dean
Faculty of Music, Edward Johnson Building
University of Toronto
Toronto, Ont. M5S 1A1
[(416) 978-3733]

After a review of submissions, the Faculty of Music will invite selected applicants to present themselves for a prepared audition and interview at the University of Toronto on Sunday, April 8, 1990. No one will be accepted without a personal audition.

Candidates who are invited to audition will be asked : to rehearse, to analyse and to discuss Beethoven, Overture: Egmont, and Debussy, Prélude à L'Après-midi d'un faune; to submit to Prof. Chenette by March 20 written notice that they will attend the audition in Toronto on April 8, 1990.

The Special Program in Conducting is available without fee to those successful candidates who are accepted into the program.

Edward B. Manning (1874-1948): Piano Trio, Op.11

Little biographical data exists about Edward Betts Manning. He was the second violinist of the Mozart String Quartette of Saint John, New Brunswick, in the 1890s. His Six Limericks for voice and piano were published in 1911 by Boosey and Co. of New York. The Year Book of Canadian Art, 1913, reported: 'Mr Manning has written a number of very beautiful songs, and has attained no small success in the larger forms of musical writing. He resides in New York.' In addition to brief notices in reference books, two biographical sketches of Manning exist, one by his wife Elizabeth Matthew Manning and one by his nephew George Matthew Jr. The two disagree in some details, beginning with the place of birth, which Elizabeth Manning gives as Prince Edward Island and George Matthew Jr locates in Saint John. The Mannings' marriage certificate in fact gives New Brunswick as Edward Manning's province of birth. The two accounts do agree on the following:

After early studies in law, Manning went to New York and studied harmony with Edward MacDowell and violin with Henry Schradieck. He married the pianist Elizabeth Matthew of Saint John in 1904, and soon thereafter taught at the Oberlin Conservatory for a few years. After a period of study with Humperdinck in Berlin, he taught at Columbia University. He was also a music supervisor for the New York City Public Schools. In addition to the Piano Trio he wrote many songs, an opera Rip Van Winkle and a operetta Blackbeard. (Manning is listed in Columbia University calendars as co-director with Cornelius Rübner of the University Orchestra from 1914 to 1916 and as an ear training and dictation instructor from 1916 to 1919.)

Forthcoming volumes of The Canadian Musical Heritage will include works by Manning--excerpts from Rip Van Winkle in Volume 10 and a selection of songs in Volume 13. The Piano Trio is reproduced in Volume 11 of the series, published in 1989. The work received what may have been its first public performance in Ottawa by the Alexandria Trio in the summer of 1989.

An exact dating for Manning's Trio, Opus 11, has not yet been established, but it is thought to have been written early in this century. Manning revised the piece several times during his life. The last revisions are dated 1943, just five years before his death. The work was played in private by the Manning family, but it is not known when, if ever, it was performed in public when the composer was alive.

Through his association with MacDowell, and judging by the musical style of the Trio, Edward Manning might be considered a fringe member of that group of U. S. composers born in the last quarter of the nineteenth century known collectively as the Second New England School, sometimes referred to as the 'Boston academics' or 'Boston classicists.' In common with many of these New England composers, Manning underwent a period of study in Europe, and in his music emulated those nineteenth-century classicists who looked to Brahms as their model of musical style. The influence of Brahms is evident in the Trio, most notably in the slow movement, whose first theme is similar to the cello solo that opens the third movement of Brahms' Piano Concerto no.2.

It is surprising that Manning's Trio has been almost totally neglected. It is a well-balanced work, with three substantial movements and a good deal of interesting material for all three instruments. The large-scale structures, though unadventurous, are skilfully handled, the themes are striking and memorable, and are supported by well-chosen late-Romantic harmonies.
